Dear Mr. Weisberg,

March 16, 1983

During the next few weeks I have to submit a proposal for teaching a special project in January 1984 and I am considering doing this project on the cover-up and deception in the investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy. One problem I face is the availability of books for the students who sign up for the project. I have written to Fairleigh-Dickinson inquiring about Mr. Roffman's book. I would also like to use two books that you have written: Whitewash: The Report on the Warren Report and Post Mortem. The books would be ordered some time in November and I would need 15-20 depending on how many students sign up for the project. Do you have that many copies and would they be available at the time that I would need them? A speedy reply to these questions would be greatly appreciated.

You may be wondering how I developed an interest in this subject. Some 10 years ago I was a student of Mr. David Wilmore at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point. I attended the first assassination symposium which he organized of which you were a part. Over these past 10 years I have tried to keep in touch with Mr. Wilmore and with new developments concerning the investigation of the assassination.

I hope you are well and I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,
Gerald Ginzach
